L.O. To use plurals for nouns ending in 'y'

We are going to start working on 'plurals' this week. This means when there is more than one of something. Look at the table below, which explains this idea.

Singular (just one)	Plural (more than one)
one cat	two cats
one dog	two dogs
one tree	two trees

However, we are going to be learning how to write the plural of nouns ending in 'y'. First though, we need to learn how to spell the singular version of our words.

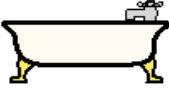

Read the words below:

baby 	lady 	enemy
fly 	berry 	bully
poppy 	daisy 	spy

Spend some time learning to spell them, using the pyramid method.

L.O. To read and spell tricky words

Let's revisit words which are in the following word families: -ath, -ould, -wh. Spell the words below.

-ath	-ould	-wh
 f.... (another word for 'dad')  	  	 (all of something)

L.O. To add -s, -ed and -ing to words that end in y

Recap the rules by filling in the table below. Use the example to help you.

Verbs ending in y

Root word	+ s	+ ed	+ ing
try	tries	tried	trying cry carry worry
hurry marry fry spy

L.O. To use 'order' words in instructions

This week, we'll be writing instructions. For instructions we need BOSSY VERBS (eg. give, put, take, stick etc) and we also need ORDER WORDS (eg. first, next, after, later, finally).

Read through the instructions below. Write them out again, using one of the order words in the box below at the start of each sentence. The first has been done for you.

Order words:

first, next, after, later, finally

How to make a paper plate fish

	Sentence	Add an order word at the start
	Use a ruler and a pencil to draw a small triangle on a paper plate.
	Cut out the triangle carefully with some scissors.
	Stick the triangle onto the edge of the plate using some glue, to make a fish shape.
	Draw some long, wiggly scales and an eye on the fish, using a black felt tip pen.
	Don't forget to decorate the rest of the fish with bright, cheerful colours!
