Good morning Longboats! Well done on another week of learning from home. There's only one more week until Summer now!

Handwriting

Can you choose the best line from your Julius Caesar trailer and write it in your best cinema font writing?

Main Activity

Today, you are going to create your own storyboard for the Julius Caesar movie trailer. A storyboard is like a cartoon. It shows the different shots that you want. Obviously, in the real trailer, there would be moving pictures, videos but you have to pick an image that will summarise these.

How are you going to design your trailer? Will you have a voiceover (that means a narrator?) Will you have lines from the play? Have you noticed that all these movie trailers have the logo of the company at the start? Which company will make your movie?

On the next page, there are some real examples of storyboards from famous movies

This is from Star Wars.

This one is from The Sound of Music.

Now it's your turn! Use your plan to help you draw the storyboard for your Julius Caesar trailer...
