L.O. To read and spell tricky words

Unjumble the tricky words below.

 hlowe	 esur	 lnoy	 tbho
 sgaru	 omst	 how	 eshlcot
 duclo	 dohuls	 udolw

L.O. To revise spelling rules – augh and –ough

Fill in –ough or –augh to spell these words correctly. Then put each one in a sentence.

th_ _ _ _ t

t_ _ _ _ t

b_ _ _ _ t

c_ _ _ _ t

f_ _ _ _ t

br_ _ _ _ t

_ _ _ _ t

L.O. To use question marks and exclamation marks

The point at which the magic paintbrush appears in the story is a good place to think of some exclamations that Ma Liang might make and some questions that he might ask. Think of two types of each sentence. An example has been done for you.

Questions (who, what, how, when, why, where.....?)		Exclamations (How....! What a!)
Where did that strange brush come from?		What a surprise!

L.O. To use adverbs and conjunctions

'how'	'when'
quickly, slowly, loudly, happily, strangely, horribly, suddenly, unexpectedly, evilly, cheerfully, unfortunately	immediately, later, after, soon, afterwards, next, eventually, first
conjunctions because, so, when, but, if, or

Choose an adverb OR a conjunction to go in the spaces in the writing below, thinking carefully about which makes the best sense.

_____, Ma Liang had a dream about a magic paintbrush.
