

As a prefect my responsibilities are to be helping others and visiting my designated class. In addition, what I mostly like doing is playing games, reading and counting up to 10 with them. I enjoy being with the Nursery children because I can help them with their work without them shouting out (and they're cute!). Being a prefect is not hard - you have to set an example to the younger ones and to be a role model. People respect you and listen to you. To notice us we will be wearing a yellow badge or in some assemblies we will be sitting on a chair. I love being a prefect!!!!

What I enjoy doing most as a prefect is playing with the Reception Class at break and working in my own class

My experience as a prefect has been great. All the things I do are things I enjoy. What do I do? Well, I read stories to the children, sharpen pencils and hand out the book bags. The one thing I most like to do is read stories to the children.

I must do a lot of tasks such as making sure everyone is happy and enjoying themselves and being a role model to the whole school. In my prefect class we do times tables, games, cleaning the classroom and reading. I enjoy helping the kids with their times tables (which all of them are good at). Also I like making sure everybody is a good reader.

I've had a lovely experience being a prefect for Patrick and Neri's class. I have been helping people in the class doing their times tables and when some are at PE I help people on Mathematics. I love being a prefect and I hope next time I will get a chance to be a prefect again.

As a prefect my responsibilities are:

- visiting and helping my designated class to do a vast majority of things from sharpening pencils to co-operating with them and supporting them with their work,
- being a good model for my fellow peers in Riverside Primary School and many others,
- to examine the behaviour of other children in assemblies and
- preventing children from injuring themselves or each other.

Just a tip for you...if you are a prefect or wearing any form of badge you are highly respected.

BUT all the things listed don't compare to being able to sit on a chair in assemblies!

Being a prefect is a big responsibility. When I am in my prefect class I help the children with their work. When you are walking around school and people are shouting you can tell them to stop and then write in your book who you told off. I love reading with children when I am in my prefect class.

I love helping the children with their work which is so cute. I'm responsible for helping the teachers. My experience helps me to calm my anxiety. It was a bit funny at first but now I like it.

My responsibilities are to encourage other children and set an example for the entire school. In my prefect class we normally play games with the kids (learning ones) and then help them with their coats and walk them out. I love being a role model for younger children and being able to help them in class. Since I became a prefect people respect me more and I love that!
